MARCH 18, 1756. [Numb. 1134.]

The SOUTH-CAROLINA Gazette.

BOSTON, January 19.

WE have advice from Albany, that on the 25th of December paſt, a French ſoldier (one of the regulars) came over to our fort near lake George, and being examined, ſaid, that he came from Ticonderoga, at which place there were about 300 French and Indians, who were very ſhort of proviſions, particularly freſh meat, as they alſo were at Crown-Point, being allowed but 4 ounces a day per man, but that they had a full allowance of bread.—That about 60 more of the regulars intended to deſert the firſt opportunity, as they ſay, to enjoy the proteſtant religion, which he ſays was what induced him to do it, being one of that perſuaſion.—That the French had left the works they had thrown up at the Narrows, about 5 miles from Ticonderoga.—That ſeveral ſmall parties were ſent out to go upon the frontiers, and that one ſcout of 80 French and Indians were ſent out the next day. Upon being aſked relating to the battle on the 8th of September laſt, he ſaid, That he could not tell how many were killed, but that in the firſt engagement, with Col. Williams, they took ſeveral of the Engliſh men priſoners, and a party of the French eſcorted them to South-Bay, where they waited to know the iſſue of the battle; but towards evening, none coming from the French army, they heard the noiſe of guns approaching which was from the party ſent out by Col. Blanchard, who came up with a number of the enemy in their way to the camp, they concluded their whole army was cut off, and the Engliſh purſuing; upon which imaginations they knock'd the priſoners in the head, and killed them; among whom was Capt. M'Ginnis, one of the commanders of the Mohawks; and then they haſtened to Ticonderoga in their place; from whence a ſcout was ſent out the next day to get intelligence, and towards evening they diſcovered a large body of men, coming over the mountains, which they ſuppoſing to be the Engliſh advancing, immediately ambuſhed them; and, it being dark, fired upon them; which was returned on the other ſide, and the miſtake not diſcovered 'till they had exchanged ſhot two or three times; it being upon their own men, who were obliged to march that way, becauſe their battoes were removed: In this ſkirmiſh ſeveral were killed and ſome wounded.

LONDON, December 4.

THE first of November being the festival of All-Saints, is appointed in Portugal for the celebration of the Auto da Fe, and as on these days insults are frequently offered to Protestant strangers, if met in the streets, most of the gentlemen of the English factory go the night before to their country-houses, and do not return 'till the 2d of November, when every thing is quiet. To this unhappy bigotry, which brings many of the country inhabitants to Lisbon to see the show, the great loss of the Portuguese, and, on the other hand, the preservation of the English, is thought to be owing.

The shock of the 1st of November was also felt at Bilboa.

Letters from Seville, dated the 10th of November, advise, that they had another shock of an earthquake two days before, which had thrown down several houses.

At Leghorn, on the 8th of November, an earthquake was felt; but we can't learn the damage it may.

NEW-YORK, February 5

MAJOR General Sir William Johnson, Baronet, was to have a meeting of the Mohawks, and other Indians, at his house at Mount Johnson in the county of Albany, about the latter end of last month.

By the Packet, which arrived here on tuesday last, we cannot learn, that there was any probability of a declaration of war taking place soon between the courts of London and Versailles, the latter being so greatly distressed by the down right blows she meets with from the British lyon, as to be in a condition of acquiescing to a most any terms England thinks proper. Letters of reprisals are actually granted to the French men of war, but not to their privateers; and altho' his most christian majesty has been pleased to say that the dissentions among the members of the British parliament would enable him to make ample amends to the merchants of France for the loss of their vessels; yet three battles gained in America, and taking 20 of their men of war, could not have filled the court of France with greater consternation than the news of the first day's proceedings of the British house of commons; which we are confidently assured, tended to the grant of near 7 millions sterling, for the service of the year 1756.

Boston, February 9 By a vessel arrived at Marblehead from Lisbon, according to the nearest computation that could be made, about 60 000 people had perished by the several shocks of the earthquake in the beginning of November; and that on the 30th of that month, they had a very violent shock, by which some of the remaining buildings were thrown down, and about 50 persons killed.

Extract of a letter from Lisbon, dated Dec. 24.

" —— His Britannic majesty hearing of the unhappy catastrophe of this place, resolved (with the content of both houses of parliament) to send his Portuguese majesty the succours as per inclosed list, which is vastly well taken by the natives, and hope will make them henceforward more attentive to our commerce.

" We are daily alarmed with small shocks, and are very sorry to learn, by a vessel from your place, that you felt a severe one on the 18th ult. which was the same that destroyed Tetuan, Fez, and Mequinez in Barbary. God grant, that we may soon be delivered from such terrible visitations. Affairs between Great Britain and France continue still in suspence.

" PRESENT from England to Portugal.

" £. 30,000 in Portugal gold. £. 20,000 in Spanish dollars. 6000 barrels of beef. 4000 barrels of butter. 1200 barrels of rice. 10,000 quarters of flour. 1000 barrels of biscket. 10,000 quarters of wheat, with hoes, pick axes, and all other tools, shoes, stockings, hats, &c. "

Boston, February 23 They write from Halifax, that they are about, as far as the season will admit, three new forts, with barracks, viz one barrack on the Citadel Hill, which is to be 365 feet long and 35 wide, of two stories, which hill and barrack is to be walled in the circumference of the whole hill, which is very large, and to be mounted with a great number of cannon, which will command not only the whole town, but also as far as cannon ball can reach back into the woods, so that 20 000 men could not come to do it any damage, as the hill is very steep, and is look'd upon impracticable to raise a bomb-battery so near as to reach it. Another fort and barrack is to be erected on the Windmill Hill (so called) about half a mile to the southward of it, but of smaller dimensions. A third at a place called Pleasant-Point, at the north side of the N.W. Arm, so called.

By Capt. Knox from Halifax we are informed, that the day he sailed, an account came in from Chignecto, that one of the French inhabitants having come to the English fort there, and informed that about 300 French and Indians were near, and intended to cut off the English wood-cutters Lieut Col. Scott, with about 300 of the provincial troops, went in quest of them, and having been out a day and night without discovering the enemy, he concluded the deserter had deceived him, and was returning to the fort; but on his way back, the enemy came upon his rear, upon which he faced about, and firing, killed 8 Indians on the spot, and put the rest to flight, many of whom were doubtless wounded, as much blood was found in their tracks, upon the pursuit.—We don't hear that any of our people were killed or taken. Two Frenchmen were taken prisoners, and brought to Halifax the day Capt. Knox left that place.
